

USyd goes digital to keep 14,000 quarantined Chinese students learning

The University of Sydney stood up a digital environment in the space of a week to allow 14,000 students quarantined in China to continue their courses remotely with the help of Citrix. Click here to learn more.

To read this article, please visit IT News.