

The generational divide as Millennial/Gen Z workers say they want more workplace flexibility

As the workforce slowly begins to go “back to normal”, Citrix research reveals nine out of 10 of those born in the digital generation say they’re not interested in returning to the office full time.

To watch the video, please visit Good Morning America.