

Remote Work: The New Normal?

Research from Citrix shows global employees adapting to model and think it's here to stay

Remote work is no longer an experiment, but a requirement in many nations. research shows that a majority of employees around the world are adapting to working from home and believe it will become the new normal for the way work gets done.

To read the article, please visit TechHR Series