

Citrix Announces 2019 Innovation Award Finalists

FORT LAUDERDALE, FL – April 25, 2019 – The future of work is happening now. And Citrix Systems, Inc. (NASDAQ:CTXS), today announced the finalists for its 2019 Innovation Award, a diverse group of global organizations that are shaping it through the innovative use of technology.

“The future of work is all about employee experience, arming people with the tools and insights they need to do their best work, wherever and whenever it needs to get done,” said Tim Minahan, Executive Vice President of Strategy and Chief Marketing Officer, Citrix. “The finalists for the Citrix 2019 Innovation Award are remarkable organizations that are harnessing technology to deliver workplace transformations that engage people and empower them to do their best.”

Selected from an elite pool of entries from commercial, non-profit, and governmental enterprises around the world, the 2019 Citrix Innovation Award finalists include:

- Indiana University (IU), a public university serving more than 130,000 students, faculty, and staff using digital workspace solutions to deliver a virtual desktop that enables visually impaired students to easily access and use the applications they need to achieve their academic goals anywhere, anytime from any device.
- Schroders, a global asset management firm using virtual applications and desktops to create a truly mobile and digital work environment in which the applications and tools its 2,500 employees need to do their jobs move seamlessly with them from desktops and laptops to tablets and mobile devices.

- ZF, a global technology company enabling the next generation of mobility through its systems for passenger cars, commercial vehicles and industrial technology that has built a user-centric workspace through which employees can quickly and securely access to all of the tools they need to get work done in a single, unified experience.

The winner will be determined by popular vote and a panel of judges that includes the 2018 winners, technology analysts, and industry experts and announced during Citrix Synergy, the premier digital work conference set to take place at the Georgia World Congress Center in Atlanta May 21-23.
