

A third of workers predict employers will allow more remote work after pandemic

According to a recent OnePoll-Citrix survey, more than a third of workers expect their organizations will be more relaxed about remote work after the pandemic subsides.

To read this article, please visit HRDive.