

IT teams will need to become more flexible to support future technology needs

IT teams will need to be more flexible in order to better support the remote workforce of tomorrow, affirms a recently released report from Citrix.

To read the article, please visit ITProPortal.