

HR and IT need to partner to fix the broken employee experience

The future of work is dynamic and decentralized, and employees are demanding a similar experience. Businesses that pair HR and IT to put the right insights and information at employees' fingertips and empower them to be and do their best can redefine what work means and engage their employees in new ways that enhance their success.

To read this article, please visit HRO Today