

Microsoft partners with Citrix for the future of virtual desktops

A closer partnership to respond to pandemic demands

Microsoft and Citrix have been working together closely for decades, but that partnership is going a step further today. Click here to read more about how the industry leaders are joining forces to help companies reimagine the new, flexible workplace and gain the agility they need to succeed.

To read the article, please visit The Verge.