

Remote workers are happier in their jobs and get 105 hours more free time a year than office employees

Flexible work arrangements aren't just beneficial to employees. New research shows they could also be good for business in more ways than one.

To read this article, please visit CNBC