

Work 2022: Rewriting the Rules for Work

The great unplanned work from home experiment has advanced thinking on workforce strategies, work models, and business models by decades. And we're about to see a massive explosion in innovation because of it.

Unplanned investments made over the last year to accommodate remote work have torn down barriers and given way to new ways of operating that will fuel unprecedented levels of innovation and growth in the year ahead.

To read the article, please visit VMBlog.