

Working the Great Resignation—How Employers Can Transform Things to their Advantage

The so-called great resignation has anywhere from half to two-thirds of U.S. workers looking for something other than their current situation. Tune in to Briefings Direct to explore new research on what's behind the mass exit and things you can do to mitigate its impact on your business.

To read the article, please visit Briefings Direct.