

Flexible working and tech innovation deliver massive boost to economies

A new study from Citrix claims that the adoption of new technology and ways of working over last year drove an extra $678 billion in revenue across industries.

To read the article, please visit Workplace Insights.