

IT and HR: A Not So Odd Couple

New podcast reveals how functions can team to remove friction from the workplace, improve the employee experience and transform business results

How are those writing the next chapters of human resources and information technology interactions finding common ground to significantly improve the modern employee experience? Tune in to this podcast to find out.

To read this article, please visit BriefingsDirect